

Erne Integrated College

Critical Incidents Policy

Signature of Chairperson of the Board of Governors
Date Adopted by the Board of Governors	12 December 2023
Policy Review Date	December 2024

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CONTENTS	PAGE NO
1 Introduction	1
2 Examples of critical incidents	1
3 Other events also deemed to be emergencies	1
4 Important factors
Critical Incidents Procedures:
5 Introduction	2
6 Immediate Action	2
6.1 Gather information	2
6.2 Assess continuing risk	3
6.3 Brief the Critical Incident Team	3
6.4 Contact appropriate agencies	3
7 Action within the first hour
7.1 Contact the families of those involved	4
7.2 Telephone communication to and from the College	4
7.3 Inform College staff	4
7.4 Inform Students	4
7.5 Handling the media	4
8 Action within the next few hours
8.1 Arrange debriefing for staff and students involved in the incident	4
8.2 Inform the wider community	5
8.3 Identify any appropriate content of the College curriculum Develop a plan for handling the feelings and reactions of	5
8.4 others	5

9	Long Term Actions
9.1	Support available to schools	6
9.2	Information sharing and planning with staff	6
9.3	Information sharing sessions for students	7
10	Managing trauma
10.1	Introduction Providing opportunities to talk through or otherwise express personal reactions
10.2
10.3	Continuing or quickly re-establishing normal routines
10.4	Formal and informal recognition and rituals
10.5	Return to College by students or staff
11	Implementation, Monitoring, Evaluation and Review
12	Appendices

1 Introduction

Handling crises is not a normal part of College life, but they do sometimes occur. Some incidents, however, are of a more critical and overwhelming nature in which staff, students and parents may experience acute, even prolonged distress. A critical incident can be described as an event or events outside the range of normal human experience, of significant personal distress to a level which potentially overwhelms normal responses, procedures and coping strategies and which is likely to have emotional and organisational consequences.

2 Examples of critical incidents

A list of critical incidents may include:

- The sudden death of a student or member of staff
- A serious accident involving students and/or College personnel on or off the premises
- A violent act on College premises by malicious persons, either in person or by means such as arson, bomb, vandalism etc
- A College building becoming unsafe as a result of fire, flood or other incident
- A more widespread emergency in the community, for example the release of hazardous substances, severe weather, flooding etc
- Severe power loss
- Public health threats (e.g. meningitis)

3 Other events also deemed to be emergencies

These include:

- An incident in the community which is seen or experienced by students or staff
- An incident affecting relatives of students which is known about in the College
- An incident affecting a nearby school
- Civil disturbances or terrorism

4 Important factors

These include:

- The suddenness of the occurrence
- The shock effect
- The apparent uniqueness of the occurrence
- The need for any support to be available very rapidly

- The publicity and attention which sometimes follow
- The need to communicate with a number of people quickly
- The need for support for those directly affected, and for the large number who might be indirectly affected (students, teachers and parents).

Critical Incidents Procedures

5 Introduction

When schools face a critical incident, research suggests that they cope best when they have clear procedures and know how to use support networks. Staff need to be as fully prepared as possible before any such incident occurs. Many schools and organisations have found it useful to have a Critical Incident Team (CIT), which may be part of their emergency planning procedures and policies, such as evacuation procedures. The Senior Leadership Team will take on the functions of the CIT when a critical incident occurs.

6 Immediate action

Notify the appropriate emergency services and convene the CIT.

6.1 Gather information

It is important to collect as much information as possible about the incident. This information should be documented and kept as a written log. The following should be included:

- What happened
- Where and when the incident took place
- Whether there is still a continuing danger
- If the incident happened off-site, what help is required from the College
- The numbers and names of those injured and the extent of their injuries
- The current location of those injured, and the name and contact number of an adult present
- The location of students who were involved but not injured, plus the name and contact number of an adult present
- The name and contact number of an adult at the incident site (if off-site)
- The name and contact number of local police

6.2 Assess continuing risk

Is it likely that further injuries or damage may occur? If there is a continuing risk, the first priority must be to safeguard the welfare of the students, staff and visitors. Ensure that any immediate action to protect people or property does not give rise to further risk.

6.3 Brief the Critical Incident Team Additional members may be needed when the incident involves a particular group in the College. The Principal has responsibility for what happens in the College, and is therefore responsible for the actions of the support team. However, he or she may choose to delegate the leading of this team to a pre-arranged member of staff. The purpose of the briefing is to share information gathered about the incident and allocate responsibility for immediate and short-term tasks. The Principal should call a meeting of this team at least annually to update names, contact numbers, checklists and procedures. Written records will be kept using Critical Incident Log Sheets 3

(Appendix 1).

6.4 Contact appropriate agencies

In all circumstances contact the Chair of the Board of Governors. The Educational Psychology Service and Social Services may also be notified.

7 Action within the first hour

7.1 Contact the families of those involved The College will maintain an up-to-date list of emergency contacts for students and staff, and ensure it has an effective procedure for knowing who is on site. In the event of serious injury or death, the police will be involved and are likely to take responsibility for informing relatives in person. However, it may be helpful for them to be accompanied by a member of staff. In other circumstances, contacting the families of those involved should be done quickly and sensitively by the College. If the contact person cannot be reached by telephone, leave a brief message asking them to telephone a particular number. Try to avoid leaving complex messages as these can become distorted when conveyed. When releasing information to a wider audience, e.g. parents, prepare the information with care. Give the appropriate facts and express sympathy or concern. Blame and liability should not be attributed. Remember that the media may get access to this statement.

7.2 Telephone communication to and from the College When the news of an incident reaches the community, a large number of people will want to contact the College for details. This could jam the main telephone line, making it difficult for outside calls to be made and for others to get through. If possible, dedicate a particular line to outgoing calls. Callers phoning the usual College line should be given a factual statement and reassurance that action is being taken to manage the situation. If further details are requested, ask the caller to leave a name and number on which they can be contacted. Be courteous but concise to keep the line free for other callers. Parents will need to know whether to come to the scene of the incident, or whether their child will be returned to the College or home.

7.3 Inform College staff Provide staff with the factual details of the incident so that they can feel confident when handling questions and issues. Tell them when this information will be updated. Encourage staff to refer enquiries to the CIT when in doubt. Ask them not to talk to the media. This minimises the risk of mixed messages and misinformation.

7.4 Inform students Tell students what has happened and allow them to ask questions. Decide whether it is better to talk to large groups, small groups or individuals. This process is often best managed in small groups, by a member of staff who is well known to the students and confident in handling their reactions.

7.5 Handling the media The Principal should concentrate on the welfare of the College community and the Principal, or a designated communication officer, will deal with press interest, which can be intrusive. It may be necessary to control access points to the College site, allowing parents in but not the press. We are entitled to say who can enter the College and who cannot. Members of the press should not enter without permission.

8 Action within the next few hours

8.1 Arrange debriefing for staff and students involved in the incident.

The nature of debriefing sessions will depend on the incident. We might find it helpful to consider a different process for:

- Casualties
- Witnesses
- The wider community

We will also bear in mind:

- Whether separate briefings might prevent the incident from escalating
- The differing needs of students of various ages and at different stages of development
- Whether all parties need to know all the facts, thereby exposing everyone to the same levels of stress
- The closeness of individuals to the incident
- Whether there is good reason to respect the confidentiality of someone involved.

8.2 Inform the wider community Depending on the nature of the incident, we will inform neighbouring schools, especially where siblings known to be at other schools.

8.3 Identify any inappropriate content of the College curriculum Students who have recently been traumatised are especially sensitive to reminders. Classroom material may provide sources of likely triggers. We will not avoid such references altogether but anticipate likely reactions and ensure that teachers feel able to manage them.

8.4 Develop a plan for handling the feelings and reactions of others We will be alert to possible staff reactions, even among those who are not directly involved but for whom the incident triggers difficult emotions. Outside agencies can offer support and advice to staff (Appendix 2).

9 Long-term actions

9.1 Support available to Schools If we face a major critical incident we will use the pastoral support already in place to support us through the difficulties. In some circumstances we will need extra help to provide emotional support, debriefing and counselling from the Educational Psychology Service or from external agencies (e.g. health trusts or religious or voluntary organisations). In the aftermath of a major incident, especially one attracting media attention, we may be inundated with offers of help from voluntary groups and individuals. We will need to select and manage such offers carefully to meet the best interests of students and staff. It is clear that anticipation of a critical incident, through basic planning and staff training, will be invaluable if such an event occurs.

9.2 Information sharing and planning with staff

College staff may feel responsible for supporting the student or class during a period of crisis. However, they also have to deal with their own emotions. A new loss may evoke memories of a previous one. Grief or other reactions may return for a while. In addition, there are several reactions connected with being a professional person having responsibility for the support of children and young people. Feelings of helplessness and inadequacy in the face of others' grief and pain are not uncommon. Shock, embarrassment, guilt and a wish to push down the emotions are all natural reactions at such times. It is important that staff members have support networks readily available and feel able to ask for help. Senior staff need to be aware that these reactions may occur and should seek appropriate guidance from outside agencies. It may be helpful for teachers to discuss the difficulties they may face collectively. We will endeavour to maintain as normal an atmosphere as possible, therefore providing a stable environment that will help our students and staff to cope with any stress arising from their personal circumstances.

It is also important to remember that most teachers are not trained counsellors. They are not expected to offer bereavement counselling. Listening and being available for comfort are the main skills required. However, if a member of staff feels unable to offer support because of their own reactions, this should be acknowledged and accepted, and another colleague should be considered for the role. Specialist support can be provided to help a group of staff come to terms with a critical incident and to plan their responses to students, colleagues and parents.

9.3 Information sharing sessions for students

Evidence suggests that when students are directly involved as witnesses to a traumatic incident they benefit from structured debriefing sessions. Debriefing can also benefit students on the periphery of an incident. This enables them to express what they saw or heard, how it affected them and how they feel about it in retrospect. We will usually handle this process ourselves. For more demanding and emotive situations, however, specialist support is valuable. Specialist help needs careful planning and is likely to be given between one and four weeks after the incident. It is essential to get parental consent to student's involvement.

10 Managing trauma

10.1 Introduction The management of a critical incident can result in a great deal of stress for those involved. It is therefore important to:

- Acknowledge the emotional state of staff and students and allow time and space when needed
- Acknowledge that some staff may not wish to or be able to be directly involved in supporting students
- Be aware that the burden of support may fall disproportionately on a small number of staff
- Acknowledge that the incident may act as a trigger to students who are emotionally vulnerable, even if they are not directly involved. This may result in difficulties in behaviour and relationships

10.2 Providing opportunities to talk through or otherwise express personal reactions

While attempting to ensure continuity and normality, staff should encourage students to talk about their feelings and be prepared to listen to them. It is helpful if familiar adults are particularly alert to the signals which show that the students are still working through what has happened. Some students may require support which cannot be provided in a class or small group. If needed, short-term counselling should be offered by appropriately trained and supported staff, possibly outside the normal timetable. The College has a regular Counsellor provided by EA. Groups of students may be offered support from outside professionals who can debrief them, to help them understand their reactions and develop coping strategies. Parental permission should be sought in this instance. Staff closely associated with the students involved should be offered opportunities for debriefing and counselling. Be aware of the possible delayed reactions of those actively involved in responding to a critical incident. Staff who are co-coordinating the College's response should be supported and scheduled for relief periods. Some students and staff may need therapeutic help for a considerable time or at some time after the event. New staff would need to be made aware of loss, etc.

10.3 Continuing or quickly re-establishing normal routines Every attempt will be made to provide as much continuity as possible for students. We will maintain the normal College day, as far as possible, so that students are unsettled as little as possible.

10.4 Formal and informal recognition and rituals Arrangements may be made to express sympathy to the families directly affected by the incident, for example:

- Injured students can be visited in hospital
- Students can be encouraged to send cards and letters. Set up a memorial area where students can leave messages of condolence
- Plan to attend a funeral, if welcomed by the family involved
- Discuss the desirability of holding special assemblies and memorial services
- Anniversaries are key times and we will ensure such times are planned for and handled with sensitivity.

10.5 Return to College by students or staff Students and staff who were injured or distressed as a direct result of the incident will need significant support to reintegrate back into College life. We must remember to provide help to others returning to College after an absence, for example:

- Staff and students on sick leave at the time of the incident
- Anyone who missed the debriefing sessions
- Those who were not at the College on the day of the incident and who learned of events afterwards.

11 Implementation, Monitoring, Evaluation and Review

11.1 The SLT and Board of Governors will review this policy at least every two years and assess its implementation and effectiveness. The policy will be promoted and implemented throughout the College.

POLICY NO 2010/1 CRITICAL INCIDENT POLICY APPENDIX 1 CRITICAL
INCIDENT LOG SHEET

POLICY NO 2010/1 CRITICAL INCIDENT POLICY APPENDIX 2
SUGGESTED READING AND OTHER RESOURCES

Abrams Rebecca, When Parents Die, (Charles Letts, 1992). A book for young adults

The Author has written the book from personal experience.

DfES Emergency Planning www.teachernet.gov.uk/emergencies.

Dyregrov

A, Grief in children (Jessica Kingsley, 1991)

A guide to reactions to death in children of preschool and school age. Hindmarch C, On the death of a child (Radcliff Medical Press, 1993) Kibble D, Safety and disaster management in schools and colleges (David Fulton, 1998)

A wide range of excellent resource materials and ideas for the curriculum

Wells R, Helping children cope with grief (D Fulton 1998)

Worden JW, Grief and grief therapy (Tavistock 1983) A good general textbook. Children aged 7-16 years talk about their experience of bereavement. Useful book, shows variation in reactions.

Yule W and Gold A, Wise before the event (Calouste Guibenkian Foundation 1993) A more detailed review and planning guide for schools working to anticipate critical incidents.

Books for children

Two Weeks with the Queen. M Gleitzman (1989). Piper Books. Suitable for 10 year olds and over.

Am I Still a Sister? A Sims. Big A Company Publications. Excellent book on sibling's death.

Grandpa and Me. M and B Alex. Lion Books. The death of a grandparent seen from a Christian viewpoint.

Grandpa. J Burningham. Cape. Poignant story of a young girl's relationship with her grandfather.

Dada Maa Dies. J Jones. Blackie. The death of a grandparent in a Hindu family.

Organisations offering support for parents and children

ACT (Association for Children with Terminal and life-threatening conditions and their families) – an umbrella organisation providing information about available services: Orchard House, Orchard

Lane, Bristol, BS1 5DT. Tel: 0117 922 1556 Monday – Friday 9am – 4pm www.act.org.uk or email: inof@act.org.uk Barnardo's – The Future Matters Project – offering work with children and families suffering terminal illnesses. Mersey House, 9 South John Street, Liverpool, L1 8BN. Tel: 0151 708 7848 9

Barnardo's – The Orchard Project – offering work with children, young people and families affected by death. Barnardo's Orchard Project, Orchard House, Fenwick Terrace, Jesmond, Newcastleupon-Tyne, NE2 2JQ. Tel: 0191 240 4813

British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy BACP House, 35-37 Albert Street, Rugby, Wark CV21 2SG. Tel: 0870 4435252.

www.bacp.co.uk

Child Death Helpline – a freephone helpline for anyone affected by the death of a child. Evenings: 7.00 pm – 10.00 pm and Wednesdays: 10.00 am – 1.00 pm. Tel: 0800 282986

Child Line – Freepost 1111, London N1 0BR. Tel: 0800 1111.

www.childline.org.uk

The Compassionate Friends (TCF) – A Nationwide self-help organisation for bereaved parents; resource library and advice leaflets. The Compassionate Friends, 53 North Street, Bristol, BS3 1EB. Tel: 0845 1232304

The Child Bereavement Trust – A National Charity. Support and counselling for grieving families and training and support for professionals. Ashton House, High Street, West Wycombe, Bucks HP14 3AG Tel: 01494 446648 www.childbereavement.org.uk

Cruse – a national organisation with regional offices offering support for the bereaved and those suffering loss. Cruse House, 126 Sheen Road, Richmond, Surrey, TW9 1UR. Tel: Helpline 0870 167 1677 Admin: 020 8940 4818/020 8939 9530. www.crusebereavementcare.org.uk Email: helpline@crusebereavementcare.org.uk

RD4U is a website designed for young people by young people. It is part of Cruse Bereavement Care's Youth Involvement Project and is here to support people after the death of someone close.

www.rd4u.org.uk

Winston's Wish – A registered charity providing a grief support programme for children and parents, with a wide range of excellent resource materials available. The Clara Burgess Centre, Bayshill Road, Cheltenham, GL50 3AW Tel: Enquires – 01242515157 Helpline – 0845 2030405. www.winstonswish.org.uk